

Attendance at New Orleans Schools Drop

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Federal marshals escorted all white pupils to classes at the William Prantz school today in the wake of threats and intimidations against those ignoring the school boycott.

Marshal Edward B. Pelition confirmed reports that deputies would escort white children as well as the lone Negro girl to the newly integrated school.

Eight white children—compared to 14 Thursday and 23 earlier this week—turned out at Prantz this morning in 45-degree temperature.

There were no demonstrators in front of the school today. A cluster of five women huddled in a yard across the street, but there were none of the usual taunts, boos or jeers when the children arrived for classes.

Mary Sand, president of Save Our Schools, anticipated the drop in white attendance.

She blamed a "program of harassment" conducted against parents and SOS workers who have transported white children to the school. SOS is a group working to keep the schools open, despite token integration.

At least two more fathers, Mrs. Sand said, were threatened with the loss of their jobs if they did not observe the boycott.

An anonymous donation of funds relieved a financial squeeze applied by the legislature on personnel at Prantz and at McDonogh No. 19, where three Negro girls attend the first grade. But there were also reports the state would not relent from its order preventing banks from lending money to the school board.

150 Holding Out Against Castro Men

By RICHARD VALERIANI

HAVANA (AP) — A band of about 150 armed anti-Castro insurgents was reported fighting in central Cuba today after a new landing near Corralillo on the north coast 120 miles east of Havana.

Although the Armed Forces Ministry denounced the report as a "counterrevolutionary rumor," sources opposed to Prime Minister Fidel Castro insisted it was true.

Persons arriving in Havana from Matanzas, west of Corralillo, said the invaders have been engaging Castro soldiers and military in sporadic battles the last two days. Some claimed to have seen truckloads of troops diverted to the area while en route to the Escambray Mountains to fight other insurgents.

Two militiamen were reported killed by one such band which came out of the mountains on a raid for food Thursday and clashed with troops at Cumana-yagua, one of the gateways to the rugged range.

This report—one of several concerning armed clashes—came amid these other developments: Authorities at Cienfuegos, near the south central coast, announced one person was killed and four injured in an unsuccessful attempt of a group of counterrevolutionaries to seize a Cuban airliner in flight and force the pilot to fly out of the country.

A Cuban diplomatic note to the United States said the group was continuing from Page Three

Snowstorm Hits Areas of Southwest

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—One of the heaviest and earliest snowstorms in recent years has stranded motorists, isolated communities and cut off communications through wide areas of the Southwest.

The storm blanketed Arizona and New Mexico with up to 15 inches of snow in some areas while a freezing drizzle preceding the storm threatened a major flood in East Texas.

New Mexico was the hardest hit in the three-state area. All major highways in the state were closed stranding many motorists.

At Santa Rosa a 7½-inch snowfall closed U. S. 66 west to Albuquerque. Motorists filled up all seen truckloads of troops diverted to the area while en route to the Escambray Mountains to fight other insurgents.

Albuquerque and El Paso, Tex., were virtually isolated. Albuquerque received two inches and El Paso had four. Highways leading from the two cities were closed to all except emergency vehicles. All airline flights were grounded and railroad service was running five to six hours behind.

The snow reached its far south in Ajo, Ariz., where the fall, believed to be the first in 30 years, amounted to three inches.

Roads in northern Arizona were slick and dangerous with nine inches of snow reported in the Hubbrook-Winslow area. Grand Canyon had 11 inches.

Faubus Offers Aid to Louisiana

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus' Weekly Arkansas Recorder, said in today's issue that the governor had offered the state of Louisiana his help "in any way it might be used" in the New Orleans integration conflict.

In an answer column which appears under Paulus name appeared this statement:

"Some time ago I sent a wire to Gov. Jimmy H. Davis, as follows:

"I have noted with concern the difficulties in your state in the schools of New Orleans.

"This message is to express my moral support in your efforts to retain for the people of your state the freedoms guaranteed to them under the Constitution.

"I also wish to offer my assistance in any way it might be used in this struggle to retain the freedoms for the people of Louisiana and Arkansas and all other states to which the people are entitled."

Civilians Threatened With Death in Congo; Violence Hits Algiers

Riots Greet the Arrival of DeGaulle

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

ALGIERS (AP)—Army tanks, backed by troops and riot police, crushed barricades thrown up here today by angry crowds protesting President Charles de Gaulle's arrival in this rebellious African area to whip up backing for his home-rule plan for Algeria.

About 10,000 Europeans skirmished bloodily with security forces throughout the day. About 2,000 persons—fighting to maintain Algeria as a French territory—threw up barricades toward nightfall, just as they did last January, when they came close to overthrowing De Gaulle's government.

Two army tanks rolled over the wooden barricades across the Rue Michelet in downtown Algiers shortly after they were thrown up by the rioters.

The tanks turned and recrossed the shattered barricades and the crowds tried to surge forward and mount them, but were turned back by about 50 infantrymen surrounding the tanks.

Surrounding the area were steel-helmeted riot troops who then moved in with tear gas grenades to drive the rioters up side streets.

De Gaulle himself, on a trip to promote his ideas of self-determination for Algeria, was not near the center of today's two-city violence, in Algiers and Oran.

The crowd behind the Algiers barricades hoisted French flags and shouted: "De Gaulle to the stake!" "The army to power!"

Hard-pressed police announced that 400 rioters were herded off to jail in seven hours of rioting today.

Special riot police battled thousands of demonstrators in the packed streets of Algiers and tough soldiers moved into the great city square of Oran, 220 miles northwest of Algiers, to control a mob of thousands.

A call for a general strike proclaimed by the Front for French Algeria, largest group of disaffected sellers, was heeded to a large extent in most big cities.

But De Gaulle stubbornly went ahead with his tour, pressing his plan that could even lead to Algeria's independence. That is what the sellers fear most, for they would be far outnumbered by Algeria's Moslem majority.

De Gaulle's first stop was Ain Temouchent, a city of 25,000, about half European.

As he stepped from his car, scattered cries of greetings were drowned out by a roar of "Algeria is French." Police said 5,000 people stood in a chill downpour to shout their protests.

De Gaulle smiled thinly and stride erect to City Hall. After he had gone inside, an army column addressed the crowd through a loudspeaker. He told them to "demonstrate peacefully."

Recession Is Here, Says Fulbright

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. J. William Fulbright thinks the United States already is in a recession.

And Sen. John L. McClellan calls it the duty of the American people to "relieve foreign countries of their overloads of American dollars."

Arkansas' two senators expressed these views in public appearances in south Arkansas Thursday.

Fulbright spoke at a Rotary Club meeting at Magnolia.

McClellan spoke at a night meeting of a Rural Development Committee at Camden.

During a question-and-answer period which followed his speech, Fulbright was asked if the new Democratic national administration could keep the nation out of a recession.

"Keep us out?" he replied. "We're already in one."

"I can't remember when the dollar was in a more precarious position in the eyes of the world than it is now," he said.

Fulbright the subject of speculation as possible secretary of state in the new administration commented that President-elect John F. Kennedy's choice of a secretary of the treasury would be important because of current economic ills.

He said—as he had before—that he hadn't talked to Kennedy about the secretary of state's job and didn't know what the president-elect planned.

At the Camden meeting, McClellan declared that "We cannot go on trying to support other countries as we have done in the past."

"I am not saying that I have been in disagreement with foreign aid but I do say we cannot aid other countries to the extent that there are losses of jobs in our own country."

Experimental Rocket Fired

WASHINGTON (AP)—An experimental sodium rocket spewed out an orange-yellow flare high above the Virginia coast just before dawn today. It was tracked and photographed as far away as Dover, Del., and Virginia Beach, Va.

The two-stage Nike-Cajon rocket was launched at the Wallops Island station of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration off Virginia's Eastern Shore.

The purpose of the experiment was to study wind velocities and dispersal phenomena.

Lumumba Pals Say They Will Kill Whites

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)

Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld took urgent measures today to avert threatened reprisals against Belgians by the supporters of Patrice Lumumba, deposed and imprisoned Congo premier.

The secretary-general received word during the night that Bernard Salumu, leader of the Lumumba forces at Stanleyville, had threatened to arrest all Belgians in Oriental Province and start beheading them unless Lumumba is released within 48 hours.

He immediately called his special representative in Leopoldville, Indian diplomat Rajeshwar Dayal, for a full report and what is being done to protect the 2,000 whites in Oriental Province.

He also called his 11-nation Congo advisory committee into session. This committee is made up of all the countries which have troop contingents in the U.N. Congo force.

Hammarskjöld told the Security Council early today that the kind received "deeply disturbing" news from Stanleyville, but he did not give details.

The 11-nation council meets again tonight to continue its debate on the new Congo crisis.

Before Hammarskjöld spoke, the Congo's U. N. delegate, Mario Cardoso, accused both the Soviet Union and the West of trying to stir up mutiny in his country. He warned the United Nations not to force aid or advice on his people.

Cardoso leveled the blanket warning at a special night session of the Security Council on the Congo crisis. He spoke after the Soviet Union and Britain had blamed each other for the chaos gripping the infant African state.

Cardoso asserted that colonial powers from the West had sparked secession in mineral-rich Katanga Province while Communists provoked it in Oriental Province.

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Supporters of Patrice Lumumba who rule Oriental Province today threatened to kill an unspecified number of Belgian hostages unless the deposed premier is freed.

"They made the threat in a telegram to President Joseph Kasavubu and Col. Joseph Mobutu, the Congolese army commander whose troops arrested Lumumba Dec. 1 and brought him back to Leopoldville."

Bernard Salumu, boss of the regime at Stanleyville, capital of Oriental Province, threatened to arrest all Europeans, kill some of them, and "sabotage all Belgian interests in the province" if Lumumba was not released within 48 hours.

Premier Has Cold
MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev has a cold and has cancelled his official appointments. There is no indication he is suffering from anything more serious, although he is believed to be suffering from a busy schedule including a three week Red summit conference.
The 69 year old Soviet premier is in bed at his villa with a chest cold and slight fever. He is believed to have caught the cold Friday while seeing off Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia.

Arkansas paid over one hundred million dollars last year in premiums on property and casualty insurance.

She Seeks the Answer to Riddle of Popularity

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen:
I am one of those girls who should have been a mother very young. I love children but am too old to have them.

At 45, life has passed me by. I have never worked, never having had any experience. Am I too old to overcome self-consciousness? How can I broaden my interests?

I have no friends because I am shy and have nothing to say. I have never had a boy friend. My sister is 41 and lonely, too. She works and has had chances to marry but refused them because she couldn't find the right one. My older sister, 40, married twice unhappily. We are all introverts. Are we too old to change our ways?

Help us to become popular and stop feeling inferior or that we are prudes and bums. —A Reader
Dear Reader: Begin with the positive thought that one is never too old to learn new ways, make new friends or begin life over again. Each day is a new day—and followed it with prayer. The roll call was answered with each member telling a good deed to be done at Christmas.

The identity of Secret Pals was revealed, and names were drawn for new pals. Gifts were exchanged around a white lighted Christmas tree.

The 14 ladies were served fruit cake, assorted tidbits, coffee and punch. The next meeting will be with Mrs. L. J. Hampton on Jan. 4.

Mrs. Crit Stuart Hostess
To Her Tuesday Bridge Club
Mrs. Crit Stuart Jr. was hostess her bridge club on Tuesday night, Dec. 6. She used dried material in decorative arrangements in her home.

The high score and game prize was won by Mrs. Gordon Bayless and Mrs. Jud Martindale was second high.

A salad plate and coffee were served during the refreshment hour.

Hope Duplicate Bridge Club
Elects New Officers
New officers elected at Hope Duplicate Bridge Club meeting Dec. 5 at the Diamond were:
President, Dr. Harold Brents; Vice president, Mrs. Marie Hendrix; Secretary treasurer, Mrs. E. P. Young Jr.
At the conclusion of play, Dr. George Wright and R. L. Branch were high. A tie for second was between Miss Elizabeth Bridwell and Mike Kelly and Mrs. Bill Wray and Mrs. R. L. Branch. There were 2 1/2 tables of players.

Circle 4 WSCS Meets
With Mrs. Garrett Story
Circle 4 of the WSCS of the Methodist Church met Dec. 5 at 12:30 in the home of Mrs. Garrett Story. Christmas decorations were used throughout the house.

The large dining table held a center piece of pink candles, roses and silver Christmas Bells. Small decorations of the same type centered smaller tables.

A three course Turkey dinner was served to 15 members and 4 guests, Rev. and Mrs. Sorrels, Mrs. Edwin Ward and Garrett Story. After the meal a short business session was conducted by the leader, Mrs. Ross Moore. Mrs. Albert Graves, program chairman, told of the importance of the church offering to the missionaries.

Mrs. Sorrels played Christmas carols while each member placed a Christmas Sock on the tree. The socks had been given out in Nov. and each member had been asked to place a love offering in them. Rev. Sorrels then led in the closing prayer.

Youth to Turn on Yule Lights

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Edward Locicero, a 9-year-old patient at the Children's Convalescent Center at Jacksonville, will pull the switch to turn on the Christmas lights at the Arkansas state capitol Dec. 19. Secretary of State C. G. Hall said Tuesday.

wonderful if you make it so. Turn your back on past failure. Face future success! Take stock of yourself. Find out what type of work you like best in this world. Once you decide, make it your mastering dream. Read the books, go to the places and look up the people that can further the dream.

Without a mastering dream, life is a blank. Once you acquire it, all you desire will be yours.

Dear Helen:
My husband works 50 hours and stays out seven nights a week till the early hours of the morning. He tells me he has been playing cards and having a drink with the boys.

I have tried to be understanding and on two occasions did the same thing in hopes of curing him. I even threatened to leave him but it did no good. He says I nag him.

I work also and this leaves me alone all week. I am sick over this. Please help me. —Husband-Worrying Wife

Dear Husband-Worrying Wife:
How about filling up a card room at home for your husband and inviting in the boys. Whip up some substantial refreshments for them. Make the room so attractive that the corner saloon can't compete.

And, since you're working too, how about making your hours jibe with his—even at the sacrifice of your job?

Riots Greet

presence, as the symbol and author of a policy they hate, stirred demands to riot in Oran and Algiers.

In Oran, relative quiet was restored when soldiers replaced hated riot police squads. Their gas was freed on the mobs in both places.

The army also moved into some areas of Algiers shortly after noon. Soldiers set up gun emplacements near the university, deserted by students who took to the streets.

Most of the rioters appeared to be students who had turned out early in the morning. Women and girls, some of them still wearing ballgowns, lowered huge French tricolor flags to the marchers and urged them on. The students threw notebooks, bricks, glass and even typewriters.

The violence of right-wing reaction was not unexpected. As the hours passed, it began to appear that De Gaulle had thrown the challenge to his opponents, daring them to come out of hiding and face him and his policies.

For months now, right-wing activists have operated under cover. De Gaulle's arrival in Algiers forced their hand and true to their tradition, they took to the streets.

Government officials countered the strike appeal with a warning that shops falling to open for business would be seized for up to 30 days. Food dealers were told to consider themselves under military control.

Special precautions were taken to protect De Gaulle during his six-day tour.

Despite the presence of 6,000 police to cope with disorganized but bitter European settlers' movements, authorities admit that Algeria is a powder keg. The threat of an attempted coup d'etat haunts French security officials in this city of plots and political agitation.

The six-year-old Algerian war has been fought to a stalemate by a French army of half a million troops holding down guerrilla forces numbering in the tens of thousands. Although the National rebels' announced goal is independence, they appear willing to go along with De Gaulle's plan if they receive guarantees France will carry it out.

During this visit to Algeria, De Gaulle, 70, plans to avoid big cities like Algiers, Oran and Constantine, all centers of settlers' discontent. He will concentrate on smaller towns with Muslim majorities and spend a good part of his time talking with military officers and men in the field.

Authorities dismissed the possibility of concerted action by disgruntled settlers during the visit. Most right-wing European movements have been shattered and their leaders arrested or expelled since the abortive Jan. 24 uprising against De Gaulle.

But the flight to Spain by Pierre Lagarde, a leader of the January uprising who was on trial in Paris for rebellion, has heightened speculation that right wingers may be plotting some desperate move.

Adding to the fires of discontent are plans for a nationwide vote on De Gaulle's Algerian policy Jan. 8.

The proposals De Gaulle is submitting to the electorate were

United States charged that a four-megawatt space rocket, which fell in fragments near Hanoi in eastern China 10 days ago and killed a cow was a part of a "tremendous plot" of aggression.

The attempt to commandeer the airliner was balked. Cientuegos officials said when the pilot crashed landed the plane during a dramatic airborne gun battle.

Three rebels who attempted to flee from the plane after it crashed landed at Cientuegos Airport were captured in a nearby cane field, said the announcement.

The pilot, Capt. Francisco Martinez, threatened with a pistol soon after taking off from Cientuegos for the 150-mile flight to Havana, was one of the four wounded.

The note delivered to the U. S. charge d'affaires, Daniel Brandt, protested that the United States was endangering Cuban lives and property by launching its space rockets over this island.

Chunks of the rocket weighing up to 40 pounds fell in an unpopulated area 500 miles east of Havana after it was launched from

Man Dies at Wheel of Car

DANVILLE, Ark. (AP)—E. W. Rogers, 50, of Searcy, died Thursday at the wheel of his car two miles east of Havana on state Highway 10.

State trooper Richard Powell said he apparently suffered a heart attack. A motorist saw the car pull off the road and the driver slump over the steering wheel.

Cape Canaveral and then destroyed "by chance by absolute contempt for the life and interests of citizens of all our continent," said the note.

This last aerial incursion of North American machines with aggressive designs, a long chain of aggressions of every type directed against the Cuban people, the note continued, "permits the affirmation that this deed forms part of that tremendous plot which under the stimulus and financing of your government is being schemed in the United States against our small but great nation."

Porker Victory Over Texans Proves Costly

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas coasted to a 94-80 basketball victory over North Texas State Thursday night but the triumph may have cost the Razorbacks the services of their senior guard Clyde Rhoden.

Rhoden sprained an ankle late in the second half and will miss Saturday night's game with Mississippi in Blytheville. He may miss more.

Trainer Bill Perrell said he did not know how bad the sprain was. Junior Alan Morrison led the Razorbacks in scoring and rebounding.

Boyer put on an impressive show in the Hog's first outing before the home fans.

Morrison scored 20 points and grabbed 12 rebounds. He hit a set shot that gave the Hogs the lead at 11-9 early in the game.

They never trailed after that.

Boyer scored 14 points for the Razorbacks and tossed in a 65-foot bullseye as the buzzer ended the first half. He threw it sidearm and Arkansas coach Glen Rose said he had never seen a comparable shot.

Sprightly sophomore guard Oscar Miller led North Texas with 28 points, most of them on driving layup shots. It was his penetrations that prompted Rose to say after the game, "We are very slow, and our defense is not good."

Ardie Dixon hit 19 for North Texas and Jerry Carlton got 17 for Arkansas.

The Razorbacks out rebounded the Eagles 51-28 in winning their second game against one loss. North Texas is 0-3.

The Hogs hit 56 per cent of their floor shots.

Rose played 14 men, and used his first two platoons alternately. The second unit which includes four sophomores took over with eight minutes left in the first half and acquitted itself well despite losing four points of the lead.

Norris Admits Deals With Mobster Carbo

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — James D. Norris, who says he dealt reluctantly with mobster Frankie Carbo, faced his last round today before Senate investigators who want more details of relations between the two prize fight figures.

Norris was called back for additional closed-door questioning by the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, which was making public a transcript of his testimony.

He testified Thursday he associated with Carbo in the "fulfilled hope of averting difficulties with boxing managers who howled for more money, and threatened to pull out of televised bouts."

Norris formerly headed the International Boxing Clubs, disbanded by court order last year for monopolizing championship fights. He was excused from testifying in public after doctors agreed the strain might provoke another heart attack. Norris, 53, already has been stricken twice.

John G. Bonomi, special counsel to the subcommittee, said he planned to get down to cases today about Norris' contacts with Carbo. Long regarded as the underworld's boxing boss, Carbo is in the midst of a two-year prison term for undercover manipulations as manager and matchmaker.

Other witnesses had linked the names of Norris and Carbo. Norris said Carbo visited his New York apartment about twice a year for a decade. He portrayed Carbo as knowing more fight managers than anyone else in the game.

He said he employed Viola Masters—the girl friend who later married Carbo—as a "good will representative." He denied that the move was an effort to curry favor with Carbo, but conceded later that "possibly unconsciously I had that in mind."

Can't Fight Reds With Tanks Alone

By CARL HARTMAN

BERLIN (AP) — "There are some weapons of the Communists," said the trade expert, "that you can't fight with tanks. Bills of lading, for instance, and insurance policies."

That was his way of warning what may happen if the West German-East German trade pact, due to expire Dec. 31, is not renewed. He thinks the business life of isolated West Berlin could be slowly strangled without an issue arising that would call for armed force.

Not all experts agree. Many think that if the Reds try to strangle Berlin, there will always be some point where the issue is clear and the West can take a firm stand.

This expert is Dr. Kurt Leopold who for years has been dealing with the Communists about trade on behalf of the Bonn Government.

On Sept. 30 Chancellor Konrad Adenauer canceled a pact that had been running nine years. The trade it covered is expected to reach a record $500 million this year.

It was canceled as a reprisal against the East German Communists, who, ordered Germans coming from the West to apply to them for a special pass to visit East Berlin.

If the Communists decide to play it rough, strange things could happen on Jan. 1. Small sections of West Berlin, and of West Germany, may suddenly find themselves short of gas, electricity and water.

A more serious crisis might come because of the bills of lading. Under a Big Four order dating back to 1946, these lists of freight must accompany most shipments across the 110 miles of Communist territory that separate Berlin from the West.

To the Germans, always impressed by documents, this has great importance. The East Germans may ask for impossible information and insist on elaborate inspections if they are not furnished.

"A lot of West Berlin's manufactures," explains Dr. Leopold, "are delicate precision instruments, carefully wrapped and packed. Suppose the East Germans start demanding that the truck driver and his helper take crowbars and open the cases. If they do that with only one truck out of 10, trade will be almost impossible."

Can't Fight Reds With Tanks Alone

By CARL HARTMAN

BERLIN (AP) — "There are some weapons of the Communists," said the trade expert, "that you can't fight with tanks. Bills of lading, for instance, and insurance policies."

That was his way of warning what may happen if the West German-East German trade pact, due to expire Dec. 31, is not renewed. He thinks the business life of isolated West Berlin could be slowly strangled without an issue arising that would call for armed force.

Not all experts agree. Many think that if the Reds try to strangle Berlin, there will always be some point where the issue is clear and the West can take a firm stand.

This expert is Dr. Kurt Leopold who for years has been dealing with the Communists about trade on behalf of the Bonn Government.

On Sept. 30 Chancellor Konrad Adenauer canceled a pact that had been running nine years. The trade it covered is expected to reach a record $500 million this year.

It was canceled as a reprisal against the East German Communists, who, ordered Germans coming from the West to apply to them for a special pass to visit East Berlin.

No Transfer Rule Set Up in Conference

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Athletes who live off a college one year then shift to another to play varsity football would be a thing of the past in the Southwest Conference, if the athletic directors and coaches have their way about it.

They have asked the faculty committee governing body of the conference to pass a rule that there can be no transfers of freshman athletes to other schools in the league after they have accepted athletic scholarships.

The rule now gives the athlete the privilege of transferring if he gets unanimous vote of the conference. He can lay out of athletics a year then have two years of varsity eligibility.

"This is one of the matters to be considered by the faculty committee which opens its winter session this afternoon."

The athletic officials who also reached an agreement among themselves that they would make only four visits to prospective athletes—two before the signing date of March 15 and two afterward. They said this would relieve the pressure on the prospective West German car or truck is protected in East Germany. If the pact expires, the East Germans would be in a legal position to demand extra insurance coverage, at exorbitant premiums.

Western experts who think he exaggerates these dangers point out that the East Germans already control German traffic between West Berlin and the West. They once raised the rates for use of the superhighway and the West could only protest.

If the Communists decide to strangle West Berlin, these experts argue, they can always make excuses.

Western officials think the Communists will not allow the trade pact to expire. They believe the Communists have to great a need for West German iron and steel.

The West Germans are trying to forget the matter of passes to East Berlin as quietly as possible. This gain for the Communist side may be significant. If it is maintained, it will mean that Western powers have tacitly allowed the Communist regime to decide who may come and go in Berlin—which the West insists is under the rule of the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France.

Rhoden Hurts Ankle in Porker Win

By JOHN CHANDLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

The Arkansas Razorbacks, one of the teams figured to be in the thick of the Southwest Conference scramble this season, worried today about one of their big basketball stars—senior Clyde Rhoden.

Arkansas (trimmed North Texas 94-80 Thursday night at Fayetteville, but in the process Rhoden suffered a badly sprained ankle late in the game and may be lost for some time.

Rhoden, who averaged 16.2 points last season, was a key in the Razorback team which has most of its stars back from a year ago when it finished fourth in the conference, tied with Texas Tech.

Butler's fast breaking game was too much for Michigan, and the Wolverines were defeated 68-56 for their third loss in four games.

Art Wisnart, South Carolina junior ace, broke a 67-67 tie with a free throw with 1:44 left and the Gamecocks held on to edge Georgia 73-71.

Colgate remained undefeated by downing arch-rival Syracuse 70-52 for its first victory over the Orange since the 1956-57 season.

In a Southern Conference game, VMI rallied in the final six minutes to defeat Davidson 72-68.

Mississippi State, winner of two straight, rallied in the home stretch but couldn't overcome an early Louisiana Tech lead and lost 61-60.

Temple won its third game in four starts by blasting Gettysburg 83-61 as Bruce Drysdale scored 28 points for the Owls. In the first game of a Philadelphia-Palestra doubleheader, St. Joseph's (Pa.) easily beat St. Francis (Pa.) 87-55.

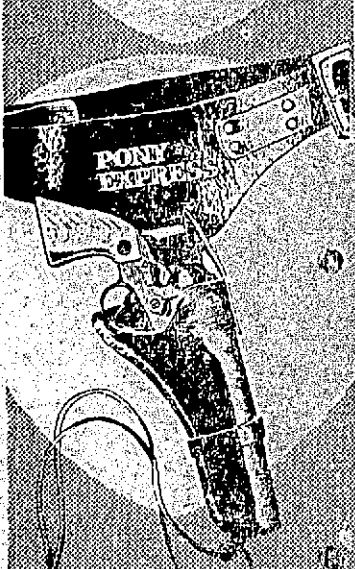

In the Far West, Miami of Florida defeated San Francisco 68-56 and Seattle tripped Pepperdine 66-55.

UN Post May Be Given to Stevenson

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy fitted a leisurely talk with Adlai B. Stevenson and the baptism of his newborn son into a crowded schedule today.

Another scheduled caller was Dean Rusk, president of the Rockefeller Foundation and a former assistant secretary of state in the Truman administration. There were well-founded reports that Rusk, currently the front-runner among prospects to head the State Department under Kennedy.

Stevenson, along with others, also has figured in speculation for that post, but seemed more likely to become U. S. ambassador to the United Nations.

More than an hour was set aside for the Stevenson-Kennedy conference before the president-elect.

Arrived off for the baptism of John F. Kennedy Jr. in the chapel of Georgetown University Hospital.

Kennedy told a news conference in New York Wednesday he is taking time to exercise "the best judgment I can" in the selection of a secretary of state, as well as secretaries of defense and treasury.

That was when he announced his selection of Rep. Stewart L. Udall, D-Ariz., to be his secretary of interior. With Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut picked for secretary of health, education and welfare, and Gov. Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina tapped for commerce secretary, Kennedy still has seven cabinet posts to fill.

The length of the Stevenson conference with Kennedy indicated that much of their discussion would involve a 160-page report dealing, among other matters, with suggestions for a possible reorganization of the foreign economic aid program.

One Kennedy associate said Kennedy and Stevenson have had not had a chance to have "a good, long talk" about the report, which the president-elect asked Stevenson to prepare some weeks ago.

No Sign of Letup in N. O. Blockade

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The thin stream of white pupils flowing past a segregation blockade at the William Frantz School ebbed to 14 today.

The high mark since Frantz was integrated by federal court order Nov. 14 came Monday when 23 white children attended classes at the public elementary school. There were 19 Wednesday.

One Negro girl attends the first grade at Frantz.

Silence as cool as the 50-degree weather greeted the white children and the Negro girl.

There were no boos, no taunts. At McDonogh No. 19, the blockade held firm. Only three Negro girls went to classes.

The two dozen chilled women let out a cheer when the police radio broadcast the arrival of only 14 white children at Frantz.

Stones pelted the home of an other family whose child attends Frantz. Police said someone threw rocks through the window of Marion L. McKinley's home Wednesday night. Juveniles tossed rocks at Mrs. McKinley and a companion in the afternoon.

Mounting problems confronting the city and state are reflected in a petition for a stay of the integration order presented Wednesday to the United States Supreme Court.

Freezing of New Orleans school funds by the legislature was taken up at a closed meeting Wednesday night between the five Orleans Parish School Board members and 15 New Orleans legislators. The legislature tried unsuccessfully to oust the board for its action in approving a pupil placement plan that led to enrollment of the four Negro pupils.

The New Orleans law makers said they would return to Baton Rouge and endeavor to get frozen funds released and arrange financing to meet the money crisis.

Dr. James P. Redmond, city under investigation, drew County Sheriff Jack Towler said Wednesday.

Billy Shook died in Drew County Memorial Hospital Nov. 28 of gunshot wounds. Miss Judy Chandler, a Conway teacher, was also admitted to the hospital Nov. 24. She was dismissed five days later after being treated for undischarged wounds.

Attendants at Stephenson Funeral Home said an ambulance was sent to the Shook home Thanksgiving night and that Shook was found on the living room floor. Miss Chandler was unconscious nearby, they said.

Assault Under Investigation

MONTICELLO, Ark. (AP)—A Thanksgiving night assault that officers said resulted in the death of a 26-year-old man and injuries to his 24-year-old sister-in-law is under investigation, Drew County Sheriff Jack Towler said Wednesday.

Independent Elector Move

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Supporters of the Independent elector movement will meet next week. State Sen. Earl Evans of Canton, chairman of Mississippi's eight unpledged electors, said Wednesday.

Unpledged electors from Mississippi and Alabama as well as leaders in Arkansas, Louisiana, Georgia and possibly South Carolina are to attend, Evans said.

No site was set for the meeting. Evans said the unpledged group has "firm hopes" that it can woo five Kennedy electors away from the Democratic ticket in the South and block Kennedy's selection in the Electoral College.

Evans didn't identify the Arkansas elector he expected to attend. Evans said if Democrat John F. Kennedy loses Illinois in a vote recount, the unpledged group has "firm hopes" that it can woo five Kennedy electors away from the Democratic ticket in the South and block Kennedy's selection in the Electoral College.

Confidence of Cat Hard to Shake

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—It is hard to shake the self-confidence of a cat. But Lady Dottie, the cat who rules in our house, is no longer quite so sure of herself. She nervously lost her empire.

She is like a veteran politician who, after surviving a close election, isn't certain whether he loves the electorate for returning him to office—or hates it for searing him to death.

Lady Dottie nipped our 7-year-old daughter, Tracy Ann, in the face and, although I'm not sure it was altogether her fault, was punished and temporarily banned from the living room.

About this time someone gave us a pair of pebrin finches. Their cheerful chirping turned Lady Dottie into a leering, stalking tigress.

Once the finches escaped from their cage and it was all we could do to save them from being pined apart.

A family conference was called to order by the chairman of the Kansas Cancer Commission said board, my wife, Frances.

"This is making me nervous," almost one fourth of the state's she announced. "We'll have to 2,377 cancer deaths in the year ending July 1 occurred in Pulaski County."

Pulaski County reported 657 cancer deaths, the report said. Washington County had 130, Sebastian County 112 and Garland County 107.

"Oh, not forever," cried Tracy. "If you do she'll die—and I'll die."

"Well, we did send her away to stay with a friend, who has a cat hospital."

named Bruce. We thought he and Lady Dottie would be friends.

A few days passed. The new birds didn't seem so new. They came up with no fresh times.

"When you hear one bird, you've heard them all," said Frances. "It's kind of lonesome around here without Lady Dottie. I miss her."

The chairman of the board called another hurried family conference. It was decided to give the birds (and our granddaughter) and bring back the cat—on probation.

Well, Lady Dottie came back to an acclaim as wild as greeted Napoleon when he escaped from Elba and fled to Paris. We did everything except throw confetti at her.

But when the excitement of her return died down a brooding look came over her face.

"You sent me into exile once," her expression says. "Will you ever do it again?"

It's a bit sad to see a cat with a hanging look, but I'm sure it won't last long. A good cat, like a good woman, never surrenders to time or fate.

Woman's Death Ruled Accident

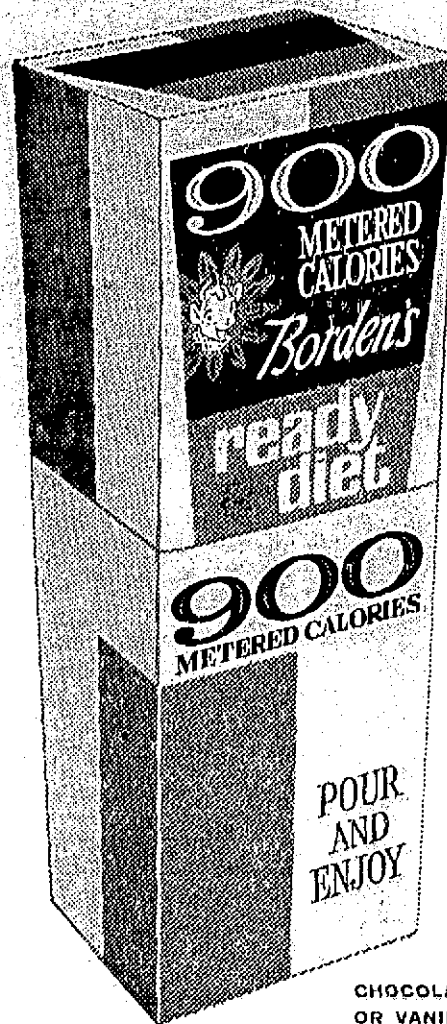

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP)—The death Sunday of an 88-year-old woman who ate an arsenic-based rat poison she apparently thought was molasses was ruled accidental poisoning, Tuesday.

The ruling in the death of Mrs. Ellen Cliff was made by W. O. Craig, Craighead County coroner.

Mrs. Cliff's daughter, Mrs. Cora Statten, also ate some of the poison and is being treated at a hospital.

Chapter XXXV

Cliff Hong had stood with his hand still lifted to knock at the door of 5B, his head beginning to reel, while Mrs. Schmidt bobbed hers up and down in emphasis.

She led him into her apartment, which smelled sharply of arise and furniture polish and fresh baking, for, as she explained later, she had run a prosperous bakery in White Plains with her late husband and still made specialties for a few favored customers.

"I hear your steps on the stairs. I expected you every day. All those weeks I wait. Today I make up my mind. I will go to the police. Anna, I say, you are a fool. This is America. They will not harm you."

"I took Cliff some time and innumerable, gently phrased questions to piece her story together. Mrs. Schmidt had, indeed, been in Antonia's apartment, as she testified at the trial, when the cleaner's boy came, and she had left on his arrival. Both she and Antonia had left their apartment doors open. She heard Antonia pour a beer to the perspiring boy and clucked disapprovingly as she listened to the refrigerator door open and close and heard the gurgle of liquid being poured into a glass.

Cliff asked Mrs. Schmidt if she had overheard any of the conversation from across the hall, and she remembered that the boy had volunteered to do a rush job for Antonia on her husband's summer suit. She had scorned the offer. "He's never home any more anyway."

"Such a foolish woman she was," Mrs. Schmidt said. "I think then that talking to just anyone will lead to trouble. She must not say that the Herr Professor is gone so much. And offering beer to a stranger. That boy must have thought she was asking him back, neini?"

It had been a habit of Mrs. Schmidt's—since Augustus died—to leave her door, the chain attached, slightly open in company," she explained apologetically. "It had been ajar again on the night of August 13. Mrs. Schmidt had seen Dr. Whiting leave his apartment. A few minutes later she heard someone knock at the door of 5A, and she lifted her position to peer into the hall.

She described the murder in detail, her veined old hands twisting. She told of tall, thin, redheaded boy who, when Antonia opened the door, said, "I saw your old man leave and I thought you might be lonesome."

Antonia had been puzzled. "What do you mean?" she asked. "You asked me, didn't you?"

the boy had replied.

He started to close the door with one hand and pulled Antonia roughly to him with the other while the frightened woman struggled and said, "Get out! Get out of here right now or I'll scream!"

Mrs. Schmidt said a look of rage had crossed his face when Antonia pushed him and tried to get him out of the door. Then it had happened so fast that she barely had time to see him pull a gun from his pocket and fire it. In a daze Mrs. Schmidt watched Antonia start falling to the floor and saw the boy close the door, look around the hallway and run down the stairs.

Her first terrified thought had been that the murderer had seen her own open door, hear the radio and would return. She had no telephone to turn to for help. When some time passed, and there was only the persistent din of a party in the apartment on her left, added to the blare of radios and television sets—for it was a Saturday night—Mrs. Schmidt gained a little courage and rose from the chair in which she sat frozen.

She peeked into the empty hall, darted across it and pushed against the door of A. She called. There was no sound. Not even a moan. The door had an automatic catch which made it impossible to open.

Then she slipped down the hall to knock at the door of the apartment on her left to arouse a slightly teetering host who, with drunken joviality, urged her to join the party. Even then she would have told her story had she not caught sight of a red-headed man standing at the window, his back to her. Terrified, she bolted.

Mrs. Schmidt had raised a window in her apartment, which faced the back of the building, to call into the courtyard below. But she had banged it shut when she saw a gang of teenagers clustered around the fountain. She had even tried, without success, to force herself to venture down the two flights below and out into the street.

Then she had decided to sit up and wait for Dr. Whiting. The Herr Professor would know what to do. Mrs. Schmidt rocked back and forth, waiting and waiting, her eyelids blinking, and she fell asleep. The slow, steady clump of her foot on the carpeted stairs, for a moment she thought that she was back in her hall, Germany, listening for the sound of the storm troopers' boots or to the steps of the Gestapo coming in the night. There were policemen entering the Whiting apartment. She heard Dr. Whiting's voice, and the door closed.

Cliff, who asked why she had not gone across the hall right then, or, at least reported to the police later on, found himself nodding in agreement with Mrs. Schmidt's explanation.

premium items such as sirloin steaks or rib roasts. The continued emphasis on beef stems from a heavier slaughter of cattle during 1960.

U.S. Department of Agriculture experts figure that slaughter of grass cattle, source of less expensive cuts, probably will be significantly larger than last year, but marketings of fed cattle (from whence come those expensive roasts and steaks) may not show much gain over 1959.

U. S. Hopes to Recover Satellite

BASE, Calif. (AP)—A Discoverer satellite containing secret sky spy gear of a type which someday may make sneak attack impossible circled the earth today.

Discoverer XVIII roared on a souped-up booster into polar orbit Wednesday—19th anniversary of the disastrous attack on Pearl Harbor.

A 300-pound capsule will be ejected over the Arctic, possibly today or Friday. If all goes well, it will be snagged by Air Force planes over the Pacific near Hawaii.

In it are bits of human tissue and human bone marrow. Scientists sent them aloft to learn how radiation affects them—a life-and-death matter for future men in space.

Also aboard the capsule were algae, blood cells, spores, gamma matoes, green peas and bunched carrots.

globulin, albumin, gold foil and various kinds of film.

The sky spy gadgets presumably included powerful long-range cameras to scan the earth and infrared devices to detect rocket firings. Such items are being tested for the Midas and Samos satellite series.

A "hot rod" Rocketdyne engine with 160,000 pounds of thrust—6,000 pounds more than standard Thor power used in past launches—boosted the 2,100-pound satellite into orbit after a spectacular firing louder and brighter than any of the 12 earlier Discoverers which achieved orbit circling the globe every 94 minutes. The satellite travels as near the earth as 160 miles, as far away as 450 miles.

The Air Force said changes in the rocket permitted an increase of 7,000 pounds in the initial weight. They also enabled the second stage Agena B, all of which orbits, to weigh 200 pounds more. Carrying more fuel, it will be able to start and stop its engine in flight and maneuver in space.

The power hike, officers said, will permit higher orbits to get data not obtained previously.

A violent solar storm gave scientists a valuable surprise bonus last month when Discoverer XVII orbited for a million miles through extremely high radiation. Scientists say examination of human tissue recovered from that satellite show a man could have lived outstanding buy, as are the les through the intense radiation bombardment.
